Q. 1. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

"Machines were made to be man's servant." What does it suggest? Why should the machines be kept at the right temperature ? In what condition do the machines blow up and spread ruin and destruction ? What can be the result if the machines are not kept in good temper ? Although most men spend most of their lives looking after and waiting upon machines, machines are very stern masters. They must be fed with coal and given petrol to drink, and washed with oil and kept at the right temperature. And if they do not get their meals when they expect them, they grow sullen and refuse to work, or burst with rage, and blow up, and spread ruin and destruction all round them. So we have to wait upon them very attentively and keep them in a good temper.
